DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-49 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 27 of copending Application No. 10/779526. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant application and application'526 are directed to a self-wound multilayer laminate comprising a dry paint layer, a pressure sensitive adhesive layer, a release liner with matte release coat on one surface and an adhesive release coat on the opposite surface. However, application'52 fails to teach that the adhesive cross-linked acrylic, that the carrier has a specific release force, or that the paint has a specific surface gloss. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify application'526 by providing said specific adhesive, release force or surface gloss because all condition are the same in both the applications.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

3. Claims 1-49 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 27 of copending Application No. 10/779528. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant application and the application'528 are directed to a self-wound multilayer laminate comprising a dry paint layer, a pressure sensitive adhesive layer, a release liner with matte release coat on one surface and an adhesive release coat on the opposite surface. However, application'528 fails to teach the specific adhesive material, release force or surface glass. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify application'528 by providing said features because the conditions are the same in both the applications.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

4. Claims 1-7 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claim 6 of copending Application No. 10/779480. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant application and the application'480 are directed to a self-wound multi layer laminate comprising a dry paint layer, a pressure sensitive adhesive layer, a release liner having a matte release coat on one surface and an adhesive release coat on the opposite surface. However, application'480 fails to teach the presence of specific adhesive material, release force or surface gloss. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to modify application'480 by providing said features because the conditions are the same in both the applications.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. The prior art uncovered so far fails to teach the self-wound multilayer laminate comprising a dry paint layer, a pressure sensitive adhesive layer overlying one surface of the paint layer, a release liner overlying the opposite surface of the paint layer, the release liner having a matte release coat on the surface adhered to the paint and an adhesive release coat on the opposite surface as recited in the independent claims.
